"My Son Met With Foul Play," Says Missing Standard Oil Man's Father

"There is no question in my mind—and I know that my daughter-in-law agrees with me—that my son met with foul play. I am convinced of this. We have searched the hospitals and morgues thoroughly. We have found no clue. His accounts were O. K. and his prospects good. There was no reason for him to leave and the only believable theory is that he met with foul play." —Statement of Dr. Henry Clarke Coe, father of missing Back Bay man, mysteriously missing.

Have You Seen This Man?

COUNTRY-WIDE SEARCH FOR MISSING MAN

That Henry Clarke Coe, Jr., the Standard Oil representative, who dropped out of sight suddenly in Boston last Saturday morning, was murdered is the belief today of the young wife and parents of the missing man.

The young wife of the missing man is now prostrated at the Coe home, No. 1200 Commonwealth avenue, Allston.

Private detectives, who have been working on the case, have not given up hope. They declared today that they had a new clew, but refused to make it public.

Through a Boston detective agency the young wife, who was Miss Helen Ainslee, daughter of A. Allen Ainslee, former owner of the Hotel Lenox, offers a reward of $250 for any information which may give a clew to her husband's whereabouts.

Manager Coe disappeared in broad daylight, and the case gives the Boston police one of their most puzzling mysteries in a long time. In addition to the touch of extreme pathos given the case in the illness of the beautiful young wife, who was reported today to be in a serious condition, there was added today the news that she is about to become a mother.

FEARS FOUL PLAY.

Dr. Coe believes his son was struck over the head and robbed, possibly in the vicinity of Northampton street.

Though the police and detectives have quietly but vigorously hunted for several days, they have as yet failed to unearth a single clew in the mystery. It was announced today.

Manager Coe disappeared last Sat-

Turks Beaten in New Attack on Canal

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 5—Turkish troops today resumed their attempts to cross the Suez Canal at Houseoum, near Ismailia. Several boats that they succeeded in launching were sunk, and all on board perished. British warships have resumed their bombardment of the Turkish positions.

"BUY IT NOW" AND AID REAL PROSPERITY

Business depression in this country will vanish if the people of the United States will adopt the motto "BUY IT NOW."

All that is needed to revive business and start a genuine boom is for the people to stop hoarding and take advantage of the present unparalleled opportunity to buy almost anything which is needed at bargain prices.

Goods of all kinds can be bought now at the lowest price known in years, prices lower than will ever probably be known again and at prices which will not remain long. Prices will soon go up. That is inevitable. People who do not "BUY IT NOW" will lose money, for they will have to pay more for what they buy if they buy later.

SERMON WITH MORAL.

Read the editorial published today in the Boston AMERICAN and think it over. It is a sermon which conveys a prosperity moral.

"BUY IT NOW" is the motto urged, with all it means to the American people, in all Hearst newspapers. It is a country-wide movement. It extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the North to the South.

"BUY IT NOW" is indorsed by Governor Walsh of Massachusetts, by many other governmental executives, by chambers of commerce and other trade associations and by merchants unanimously.

It will solve the great problem of how to start a prosperity wave which will carry every industrious man and woman in this country into a job. It will solve the unemployment problem. It will make the whole nation busy.

There is plenty of money in this country. There is more real money

'BUY IT NOW,' SAYS GOVERNOR WALSH

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Executive Department
Boston, February 5, 1915

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Governor Walsh

I am delighted to hear of the inauguration of a Buy-It-Now campaign by the Boston AMERICAN for two reasons: First, because such a movement, if properly pushed and emphasized, must have splendid results; and second, because of the long record of Boston AMERICAN successes along similar lines in the public interest.

In large measure the present business depression is due to the great war in Europe, but I am inclined to believe that it is, nevertheless, due in part to the fact that many of our people, needlessly affrightened, have chosen this, of all times, as a season for what they wrongfully call "economy." I speak now of those who are able to do things, but who have chosen to do only what they are obliged to do "until business improves."

Business will vastly improve when people with the money to do things proceed to do them. To "Build Now," as the Post advises, to Buy-It-Now, as the AMERICAN recommends.

It is my earnest wish that all in Massachusetts who have money to spend and who desire something will buy it now. Release the Massachusetts dollars which are hidden or hoarded and a material step will have been taken on the road to a recovery of business. It may be clothing, shoes, paint, building supplies, carriages, textile goods, rubber goods or what-not. The point is, if you desire something, and the funds are available, help yourself and help everybody else in Massachusetts. Buy it Now!

DAVID I. WALSH.

SHERIFF FOILS CANADIAN PLOT TO SEIZE DYNAMITER

VANCEBORO, Me., Feb. 5—Sheriff George W. Ross, with Werner Horne, the German bridge dynamiter as prisoner, left here at 3:45 today on the first part of his journey to Machias, where the young Teuton has been sentenced to serve thirty days for damaging private property in Vanceboro.

Werner plainly showed his delight at leaving the little boundary hamlet. He shook hands with a group of railroad men and depot employes in overalls, and bounded up the steps to the smoker. He was not handcuffed.

"Why should I use the wristers?" asked Sheriff Ross, "he doesn't want to run away from me. He is confident he will get a square deal from Uncle Sam.

"I've got the bracelets under my night shirt in that alligator skin bag and a loaded gun with it, and another on my hip.

"There isn't going to be any trouble or getaway. We will go by way of Bangor. It is a roundabout way, but I didn't care to go by way of New Brunswick. Not so you could notice it.

"The party will reach Bangor this afternoon."

Sheriff Ross was offered $100 if he

UNITED STATES MAY PROTEST ACT OF BERLIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Legal experts of the State Department today concentrated their attention on the edict of the German government declaring a blockade of English waters on February 18 and warning neutral ships not to enter those waters on penalty of being sunk.

It was intimated that representations may be made to Germany in behalf of American shipping through Ambassador Gerard at Berlin.

Acting Secretary of State Lansing would not discuss the subject today, but it can be stated with some assurance that the United States does not intend to relinquish its trade with Great Britain because of the German declaration. The full danger of the situation, including the possibility of an American merchant ship being blown up in British waters by a German submarine is understood clearly in official circles.

Some officials hold that Germany's declaration is contrary to international law.

"A paper blockade," such as Germany proposes to establish around Great Britain, is not recognized in the international law as it is now interpreted, it was stated, and the question of submarine attacks on merchantmen, particularly on neutral merchant vessels, brings forth a grave issue which the United States will be compelled to meet in the near future according to administration officials.

Under the common interpretation of a blockade sufficient naval forces of the blockading nation must be maintained around the nation blockaded to make it effective at all times. A submarine blockade, which simply means that a merchantman may at any time be blown up by an unseen ship, is something with which international law never yet has had to deal. The present American view is that it is clearly illegal.

decreed to go into effect on February 15. A dispatch received from Amsterdam today stated that several submarines had arrived at Zeebrugge, the German naval base on the Belgian coast. It is expected that these will be used to attack British transports and merchant ships.

Simultaneously the British War Office, stirred to the realization that Zeebrugge must be destroyed at all costs, has ordered a sea and air campaign against the German submarine base. Amsterdam dispatches say that British aeroplanes attacked Zeebrugge Wednesday night. They dropped a number of bombs and loud explosions were heard. It is rumored that heavy damage was done. This is the third attack made upon Zeebrugge by British aviators since the Germans began assembling their submarines there.

BRITISH ARMY OF 3,000,000.

That the German campaign against England, embodied in sea and air raids upon coast towns and the plan of blockade intended to cut off its food supply, has roused the empire to the limit of its war resources is evidenced in the announcement today that Great Britain is going to put at least 3,000,000 men in the field to fight the Germans. An idea of the plans of Earl Kitchener, Secretary of State for War, revealing the strength of the British forces, was given today when the new army estimates were issued in revised form by the War Office.

The House of Commons will be asked to vote, not the actual sum of money required by the War Office for the equipment and maintenance of these forces, but a sum in round figures. The actual figures will be reserved in order to prevent the information from reaching England's enemies.

A sum necessary for a total of 3,000,000 men in round numbers will be voted. This is a considerable increase over the number of men originally requested by the War Office for the subjugation of Germany.

TEMPLET OF PROTEST.

While a wild storm of criticism of German strategy was raised in England by the bombardment of the coast towns of Hartlepool, Scarborough and Whitby, this was only a mild flurry as compared with the tempest aroused by the warning that neutral ships will be endangered if they enter the blockade zone.

The newspapers declare that this warning is directed toward the United States in an attempt to prevent ships of that country from bringing supplies to England.

This is an effort that America should treat with the scorn it deserves," says one newspaper. "Now the United States knows the methods of German warfare if there has been any doubt as to them before."

TERRIFIC FIGHTING IN POLAND; FRENCH TAKE GERMAN TRENCH

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Driving back the German and Austrian troops in the Carpathians, the Russian armies are forcing their way rapidly into Hungary. It was announced officially at Petrograd today that the Czar's forces had reached the River Laborc on the south side of the mountains, taking in their advance from Uszkia pass 2,000 prisoners and ten machine guns.

West of Warsaw the Russian troops are continuing their offensive and are gaining ground despite the heavy reinforcements and big guns that the Germans have brought up to maintain their positions. After driving back the Germans who attempted to recapture Gouvine, the Russians pressed forward and took Wolaszyce-Lowicka, Petrograd says. Hard fighting is still going on there, and also about Borjimow, where the Russians have taken two lines of the German trenches. The Germans have rushed 16t batteries to the front west of Warsaw.

The campaign in East Prussia is also developing favorably to the Russians along the Inser River in the region of Lagdehnen, northeast of Gumbinnen, according to the Russian War Office. The Czar's troops are advancing despite the Germans' obstinate resistance.

The official report from the Russian general staff on operations in Hungary, Galicia, Poland and East Prussia, follows:

PROGRESS IN EAST PRUSSIA.

"EAST PRUSSIA—The Russian troops have made progress on both banks of the Inser in the district of Lasdehnen.

"POLAND—On the left bank of the Vistula the Russians have captured two lines of trenches held by the enemy near Borjimow. The enemy was repulsed in an attack on Gouvine, which is now in our possession, and we have occupied Wolaszye-Lowicka. Hard fighting is still going on there. The enemy is still in possession of the distillery in Wolaszye-Lowicka, but we hold the rest of the town.

"The enemy is continuing his obstinate resistance to our attacks and is trying to break through our lines in this region over a front of seven miles. He has brought up seven divisions and 100 batteries. As a result of our successes the fighting line has been shortened a mile.

"The Russian counter attacks began on Wednesday, and have been continued night and day since that time. Desperate fighting has been raging along the entire front, but our offensive has compelled the enemy to assume the defensive.

ADVANCE IN CARPATHIANS.

"GALICIA and HUNGARY.—The encounters in the Carpathians are developing on the line from Dukla pass to Wyszkow (100 miles). The Russians have advanced to the River Laborc, capturing 2,000 prisoners and ten machine guns. Russian troops who heroically repulsed bayonet attacks at Lupkow and the Beskid passes retired to new positions, but the enemy's advance at Wyszkow pass and Tagiarelf was repulsed with heavy loss."

The latest official bulletin from Vienna admits an important Russian success in Galicia, where heavy mortar fire forced the Austrians to evacuate Tarnow, the chief town of a district, forty-eight miles from besieged Cracow. Tarnow is an important manufacturing city of about 40,000 inhabitants.

GERMANS TAKE 6,000 RUSSIANS.

German operations in the region of Borjimow, have resulted in the capture of 6,000 Russian prisoners since February 1, according to an official report from the German general staff issued at Berlin this afternoon.

The report claims that the Germans have repulsed the French attacks in the western theatre of war, and the Russian assaults in East Prussia and west of the Vistula river. It is apparent, however, that the Russians have taken a strong offensive against the German troops before Warsaw and that the Germans there are now on the defensive.

The German report follows:

"On the whole western front yesterday there were only artillery duels. Isolated French attacks against the German position northwest of Perthes (in Champagne) were unsuccessful.

"On the East Prussian frontier renewed Russian attacks south of the Mariel canal were repulsed.

"A strong Russian attack against the positions recently taken by the Germans east of Borjimow was equally unsuccessful.

"The number of prisoners taken there since February 1 totals twenty-six officers and about 6,000 soldiers."

DROP BOMBS ON VERDUN.

German military aviators bombarded Verdun, the French stronghold on the Meuse, after a perilous trip over three of the forts defending the city to the northeast, but their machine was shot down and the airmen were made prisoners when they tried to escape.

One of the Germans was wounded and the aeroplane showed marks from more than 100 bullets and shrapnel fragments.

So severe was the bombardment from the French high-angle guns when the German Taube approached Verdun from the direction of Varennes that it was lost to view for a considerable period, owing to the smoke from bursting air bombs.

AFRICAN TROOPS PRAISED.

Brilliant work by the African troops of the French army, resulting in a decided gain for the allies to the east of the road between Arras and Lille, is reported in an official statement issued by the French War Office at Paris this afternoon.

After the explosion of a mine, Zouaves and Turcos dashed forward and established themselves strongly in the position where the mine had blown up a German trench, the report says. All the German soldiers in the trench were killed or taken prisoners.

The communique also claims marked success for the French artillery at several points, while in the Argonne, two counter attacks made by the French resulted in their regaining ground previously lost to the Germans and also in their advancing beyond the location of their first position.

The text of the Paris communique follows:

TOOK GERMAN TRENCH.

"In Belgium the German airships showed great activity yesterday.

"The communique of last night reported the capture of one of the enemy's trenches to the west of the highway from Arras to Lille to the north of Ecurie. That trench hindered the troops occupying the ground gained by us a few days ago. To the east of the same road we exploded a mine and immediately thereafter a detachment of Zouaves and of light African infantry firmly established itself upon the conquered position. All the Germans in the captured trenches were killed or made prisoners.

"Our artillery silenced the enemy's batteries near Adiafer, south of Arras; at Pottereau, northeast of Alberti; at Ham, northwest of Peronne; likewise in the sector of Pailly, south of Nayon.

"In the Argonne there was a single attack at Bagatelle. That attack, which took from us a hundred yards of trench, provoked two counter attacks on our part, which not only regained less 100 yards but also gained ground beyond there.

"In the Vosges there were artillery combats."

TURKS BEATEN AT CANAL.

The main Turkish forces have reached the Suez Canal, and a general battle is developing east of the waterway. Between Port Said and Suez the Ottoman troops have thrown up earthworks a few miles east of the canal. These were shelled all night by light-draft British warships and the Turks were compelled to retire.

The Turks today resumed their attempts to cross the canal, but were beaten off with severe losses.

British aviators reported Thursday that the Turkish forces numbered about 45,000 men. They are well equipped and have a number of heavy guns. A number of refugees have arrived at Cairo from the district east of the canal. Some claimed that they were deserters from the Turkish army and that they had had no food for two days. Later they confessed that they had never been in the army.

GERMANS CONFIDENT SUBMARINE BLOCKADE WILL BE SUCCESSFUL

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Feb. 5.—While the German Admiralty anticipates protests from neutral countries against its action in proclaiming a blockade of England and its warning that ships of non-belligerents might be endangered, it maintains its right to take this step without any violation of international law.

The Admiralty's action is indorsed by the Berlin newspapers today. They assert that England's alleged order to its merchant vessels to use the flags of neutral nations was the direct cause of the Admiralty's declaration of a blockade and hint that the failure of the neutral countries to protest to England shows they are silently if not actually supporting the allies.

As to the ability of the German submarines to maintain the blockade of England, doubt is expressed in no circles. The German naval critics point to the activities of the U-21 in the Irish Sea as evidence of their value in warfare against ships upon which England depends for her supplies.

The attitude of the German Admiralty may be summed up thus:

'We do not intend to wage war upon neutral ships. We hope that none will suffer, but Germany is waging a campaign against enemies who are trying to throttle her commercial liberty and she must take the necessary steps to protect herself.

"The warning issued by Germany gives neutral shipping plenty of time in which to leave dangerous waters."

WOMAN RESCUED BY FIRE ESCAPE

Mrs. A. J. Bates, sixty-five, was rescued and taken down over a fire escape today and her husband was badly burned at a fire that did $2,500 damage in the five-story brick building, No. 82 Essex street. Mr. and Mrs. Bates live in an apartment on the fourth floor of the building, where Mr. Bates has a sign painting establishment and where the fire started.

Benjamin Miller, living at No. 5 Asylum street, and employed on the third floor of the building, rescued Mrs. Bates. He saw smoke curling up around the windows of the fourth floor. Getting a ladder he placed it up to the fire escape and went up to the Bates apartment. Breaking in the window, he found Mrs. Bates gasping for air.

PIMPLES DISFIGURE FACE AND NECK

Could Irritate and Burn, Ashamed To Go Out, Could Not Wear Collar, Could Not Sleep at Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

"6008 Third Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I was troubled very much with pimples and blackheads which first began on my forehead then on my neck. They would irritate and I would scratch them which would make them bleed and burn something awful. My face and neck were disfigured and I was ashamed to go out; I could not wear a collar. At night I could not sleep because they would burn and itch so bad.

"One day I happened to see an advertisement in the paper and sent for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Just one week after using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment I found great relief. I would wash my face and neck with the Soap then put a little Ointment on and wash off in a few minutes. After using Cuticura Soap and Ointment several months I was completely healed." ELOPERS RETURN TO FITCHBURG

NORA BAYES, actress, formerly Jack Norworth's wife, who seeks to divorce her third husband.

FITCHBURG, Feb. 5.—Harlan M. Crooker, twenty-three, and Edith M. Cummings, twenty-one, who eloped to Richmond, Va., and were married, have returned home to receive parental blessings and the congratulations of their friends.

Mr. Crooker is the son of W. D. Crooker of No. 121 Charles street, and is employed as assistant to the president at the Putnam Machine Company. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Squire Brunley of No. 17 Howard street, and was employed in the Nicholas & Frost store.

The marriage was revealed in Richmond when "Parson" James Madison Macon, marriage commissioner, returned the certificate of the wedding, which took place February 1. After getting the license they sought out the "Parson" whose fame as friend aid to Cupid caused them to go to Richmond, they said. A wedding ring having been purchased, the parson quickly tied the knot.

$2,000,000 Cabot Contest Over Will

The trial of the Cabot will case, involving an estate of nearly $2,000,000, will begin in the Superior Court at Dedham, February 18. The case comes up on the appeal of Mary C. Briggs of Beacon street, from the allowances of the will of her father, Louis Cabot. Mrs. Briggs alleges the execution of the will and codicils was "procured by fraud or undue influence."

NORA BAYES IN THIRD DIVORCE

Boston friends of Nora Bayes, the actress, who was formerly the wife and stage partner of Jack Norworth, will learn today for the first time that she has begun a divorce action in New York against Harry Prince, an actor, whom she married soon after securing a decree from Norworth.

As soon as the case was filed in the New York courts it was referred to a referee and the papers sealed. Prince denies the charges in her suit.

When Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth separated she became Prince's dancing partner. They appeared all over the country in vaudeville and made a great hit.

Last July she was taken suddenly ill while making a tour of Europe. She was sent by physicians to Kissengen. There doctors considered her health so serious that they stated she probably would not live six months.

While appearing on the stage as Nora Bayes' partner, Nora Bayes became renowned the world over as the girl who introduced the song "Harvest Moon." Other hits followed and the couple were considered in theatrical circles as among the best of entertainers.

In January, 1913, stageland was startled by the announcement that Nora Bayes had entered a divorce suit against Norworth in Chicago. Two months later she secured a decree.

For a short while after divorcing Norworth she appeared in vaudeville alone. Then she became the dancing partner of Prince. Several months later her friends were again startled when they learned that she had secretly wed Prince.

Nora Bayes' right name is Dora Goldberg. Her first husband was C. A. Gressing, a Chicago business man, from whom she was divorced.

Hold Woman on Price Tag Clew

A price tag on an article in a muff which Mrs. Clarice Mackin, twenty-six, of Waltham street, South End, carried attracted the attention of Patrolman McInnis, who arrested her on a shoplifting charge.

SAYS NORDICA LEFT HUSBAND

FREEHOLD, N. J., Feb. 5.—Evidence purporting to show that Mme. Lillian Nordica intended to leave her husband, George W. Young, forever, when she sailed away on the trip cut short by her death, was introduced before Surrogate Slocum here, where the first will leaving the singer's estate to Young, is being contested.

William F. Baldwin of Boston, a brother-in-law of Mme. Nordica, quoted the singer as having said to him just before she sailed from America the last time:

"George (Mr. Young) says he wants to go along, but I do not want him. He never does as he says he will. I will get away with as little fuss as possible and make a home for myself, as George borrows everything I can get hold of and cannot get an accounting with him.

"I am going to have him watched and as soon as I can get away I am going to leave him forever.

"He now has all my money, but I am going to try to make a home for myself. It's a shame for me to have to go out of the country and make money for him, as he wants me to."

Three unsuccessful efforts were made by William Hamilton Osborne, representing the heirs, to break the 1914 will, to have a certified copy of the document admitted as evidence in the hearing before Surrogate Slocum. Emil Dreyfus, associate counsel with Mr. Osborne, testified that he had asked permission of Surrogate Cohalan in New York to bring the original of the 1914 will to New Jersey but the surrogate expressed fears that if the document left New York it might not return safely.

Detective Sues F. B. Kendrick

Frank B. Kendrick, president of the A. C. Daniels Company of Boston, whose recent divorce case aroused interest, is the defendant in a suit for $2000, filed at Salem by Robert Reid, a Boston detective, for services rendered.

Dies After Shaking Furnace

FOR HELPLESS BELGIUM

"If, after this, one Belgian goes without a full meal whilst thousands of lapdogs are living in luxury from Canterbury to San Francisco and from Biarritz to Venice, there is really nothing more to be said for mankind. A contribution to the fund is the payment of a debt, and not a caprice of charity. I therefore make, not an appeal, but a claim on Belgium's behalf which she is too gracious to make for herself."—GEORGE BERNARD SHAW.

"3,000,000 women and children are starving in Belgium."
Ambassador WALTER H. PAGE.

"The people of Belgium are all in need and they cannot and will not be permitted to suffer while there are Christian men and women in the Commonwealth."—GOV. DAVID I. WALSH.

Brussels is feeding 280,000 people twice a day with soup and bread. Antwerp has about the same number. At St. Nicholas 20,000 people are without bread. This is only a small part of the sad story of the nine provinces of Belgium occupied by Germany.

The New England Belgian Relief Committee will send another ship with food and clothing about March 1. The situation is a desperate one.

Send supplies and small money contributions to the New England Belgian Relief Headquarters, 426 Boylston Street, Boston. Checks to JOSEPH H. O'NEIL, Treasurer, Federal Trust Company, Boston.

urday, in all likelihood between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning. He left his Commonwealth avenue home to keep an appointment with General Manager Wilkinson of the Standard Oil Company at 9 a. m. He boarded a car near his home in Allston—and then dropped from sight as suddenly and completely as if the earth had opened and swallowed him up. The police said the case was as baffling as the disappearance of Dorothy Arnold in New York.

Dr. Coe made this statement to an AMERICAN reporter today:

"I reached here Sunday night in response to a long distance call from my daughter-in-law. I took the first train over after hearing from her.

"There is no question in my mind, and I know that my daughter-in-law agrees with me, that Henry must have met with foul play.

"No man would voluntarily leave his wife in the condition that my daughter-in-law is in.

DEVOTED COUPLE.

"They were ideally devoted to each other. They were a happy couple. Henry wrote to me Friday night last and I received the letter Saturday, the day he disappeared. It was one of the most cheerful letters I have ever received from him.

"The letter was full of their mutual happiness and spoke of the happy event to come.

"My daughter-in-law is a brave little girl. She is bearing up wonderfully well under the circumstances, but her condition is such that we are almost frantic over Henry's fate.

"I am convinced Henry is a victim of foul play. Not for a minute do I believe he did this intentionally. My belief is that he received a blow on the head and was robbed.

"Today I received a special delivery letter from my partner in New York telling me he had heard of Henry's disappearance, and that he had started an investigation in New York. He is simply doing all he can to help us.

"The police in this district have been notified, and the detectives are at work. But the last telephone I had from them was that they had found no trace of my son.

"I don't know Boston very well, but it is my presumption that Henry possibly flashed his roll of bills somewhere in the section where he left a sample case. That was on Northampton street.

"This sample case he left at a store on Friday, and my son was to call on Saturday for it.

"He might have taken his money from his pocket. Somebody may have seen it, and like a lot of other cases, probably some thug got him.

There would be a blow on the head, and the crime would be accomplished.

"We have searched the hospitals and morgues thoroughly, but we have found no clew.

"Henry is a quiet, home-loving boy. The first thing we did was to go over his accounts at the Standard Oil offices. Everything was O. K. His prospects were good and he had no bills against him. There was no reason for him to leave, and the only believable theory is that he met with foul play."

When Mr. Coe left his home Saturday morning, he kissed his wife goodbye and told her of his appointment with the general manager at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Coe met the young Standard Oil man during his stay at the Hotel Lenox which her father then owned. She has been married less than a year. She cannot be convinced that he is not murdered. Although they carefully conceal the fact from her, the detectives who have been straining every effort to find Coe, also believe he has been killed.

The engagement which Coe had with his superior was for the official notification of his promotion. Mr. Wilkinson came to Boston for the purpose of informing the young man that his territory has been enlarged and his salary increased. On this account, since his superiors were satisfied with his work, Mrs. Coe is certain that his business has nothing to do with his mysterious disappearance.

IN HIGH SPIRITS.

Then too, when Coe left home Saturday, he was in the best of spirits, although he knew nothing of the promotion which was awaiting him. He was last seen aboard the street car, by a friend, who noticed nothing unusual or noticeable about him.

Coe had only about $100 in cash with him. He wore a ring set with three diamonds, valued at about $275, and an amethyst stickpin. A careful search of the local pawnshops has failed to reveal the jewelry.

DESCRIPTION OF MISSING MAN.

Henry Clarke Coe, Jr., local head of the Standard Oil Company, strangely missing today, is described as follows:

Age, 25 years.
Height, 5 feet 8 inches.
Weight, 150 pounds.
Hair, light brown or auburn.
Eyes, hazel.
Wore black overcoat, with mourning band on sleeve, and blue serge suit. Had large amethyst scarf pin in tie and wore three-stone diamond ring.

The detective theory is that Coe was murdered while on his way to the shop in which he had left his fur coat to be repaired, Friday. He was to have called for the coat Saturday. The detectives or police have been unable to locate this repair shop or tailor's establishment.

CHEERFUL IN NOTE.

No later than the night before his disappearance he wrote to his father in his usual cheerful way, the letter indicating his happiness in his home and his contentment in his business. Since his father's arrival in Boston, all the hospitals have been visited, but without success.

Mr. Coe is five feet eight inches tall, and weighs about 145 pounds. He is of light complexion with light hazel eyes. He has a scar on his right hand, running from the thumb to the wrist.

Drink Hot Tea For a Bad Cold

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

MISS FLYNN URGES JOBLESS 'MENACE'

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Tactics resembling those of Frank Tannenbaum were advocated by Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, who was a Lawrence strike visitor, in an address to 150 I. W. W. unemployed at their headquarters.

"The Mayor has promised to do something for us in May," she said. "We want help now. The trouble with the authorities is that they don't regard unemployment as really serious until it becomes a menace to their own peace. It's up to us to start something and become the menace. We want to do it now and not wait until Mayors, committees and investigations by the dozen have put us off old.

"I could tell you exactly what I mean by becoming a menace, but if I did the police would arrest me. I'd rather be on the outside, cold as it is, where I can help start something that will wake up the town, than a martyr on the inside of a cell. I guess you all know what measures I mean without my telling them from the platform. Most of them have been carried through before and they have made the authorities sit up in terror."

MISS COPE SCORES 'BLACKMAIL TRAP'

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Jessie Elizabeth Cope, whose charges of "white slavery" Colonel Charles Alexander, the Providence millionaire clubman, has promised to answer in the federal court on Monday, today gave her views of life.

"The great big girl of the Golden West," as she alleges Colonel Alexander termed her, seemed somewhat bitter. In this first speech of here since she was indicted for bribery following her white slave charges against Colonel Alexander, she said:

"My faith in man is shaken. Once I thought there were the guardian angels of a woman's good name. But now I know better. Woman to them is only a toy—a plaything to amuse them for a time and then to be thrown to one side. I have found them plotting woman's destruction everywhere. I feel that the people ought to know just how I was betrayed into a trap.

"Bribery!" she scoffed. "The farthest thing from my mind when I appealed to the government for help was money. Do you think I'd walk into an office of the United States government and put a question of extorting money before them?"

Mrs. John Maxwell's Pen Made $600,000

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Mary Elizabeth Braddon, novelist, known in private life as Mrs. John Maxwell, is dead at seventy-eight. On her seventy-fifth birthday she wrote her seventy-fifth novel, "Lady Audley's Secret." "Aurora Floyd," "John Marchmont's Legacy" and "Run to Earth" are among her books. She made $600,000 by her stories.

Hawes Says Boston Needs Preventorium

Dr. Bromham Hawes, secretary of the board of trustees of the Massachusetts Hospital for Consumptives, speaking before the Harvard and Technology School for Health officers at the Harvard Medical School, advocated a preventorium for Boston, a place where run down children could be cared for as a preventive measure to head off tuberculosis.

$1.60 A DAY TOO LITTLE FOR SIX

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—At the hearing of the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations into the strike at the cuprene and Roosevelt, N. J., plants of the American Agricultural Company, which resulted in the recent shooting and killing of strikers, a striker, Antoni Winiter, testified he tried to support a wife and five children on a wage of $1.60 a day, and failed. Even with the additional money his wife was able to earn, he could not pay for the bare necessities of life, he said. So he ran into debt.

A. Barton Hepburn, a director of the company and one of the trustees of the Rockefeller Foundation, said that he knew nothing about the condition of the employes of the Chemical company, and he had never visited the plants in New Jersey. He first learned that strikers had been shot when he read it in the newspapers.

here than in any country on earth.

There is in the United States, it is conservatively estimated, at least $3,500,000,000 in gold, which is the money standard of the civilized world. That is as much gold almost as all the warring countries have combined. Upon it is based the largest per capita currency circulation this country has ever known. In fact, money is so plenty it was never cheaper for hire than at present.

PLENTY OF MONEY.

This country not only has the most money, but it has the greatest manufacturing facilities — more mills and factories than any other. It has more food than the rest of the world combined. It has every material advantage to make it more prosperous than it has ever been.

But this country lacks one thing. It lacks confidence. It is suffering from that moral disqualification known as "cold feet." People are putting off buying things they absolutely need, such as new clothing, new furniture, new appliances and a thousand and one other things which they must soon have on their backs, in their stomachs, in their shops, stores, offices or homes.

If everybody who needs a thing and has the money to purchase it will "BUY IT NOW," there will be a revival of business which will start up idle mills, crowd stores with customers and provide work for all the people who are in bread lines or may be forced to join them.

If you want to join in a patriotic, common sense, humanitarian, good business and prosperity movement all you have to do is to would take the prisoner to the Machias jail by way of Canada.

SHERIFF FOILS HORNE KIDNAPING BY AVOIDING CANADA

Said Sheriff Ross today:

"I have had many things to contend with since Horn has been in my custody. It has been a very distressing duty. I have tried to please all sides, but I tell that my first duty was to my country and to my oath of office.

"That was why I had to reject different propositions put up to me in the past few days.

"The first plan proposed by an agent from the other side of the line was to have me escort Horn from the immigration room on the American side across the bridge to the Canadian end, under the pretext that I wanted him to point out to me the exact spot where he placed the suitcase of nitro-glycerine. As soon as he got there he was to be seized by Canadian officials.

KIDNAPING PLOTS.

"Of course I had to turn that plot down. Then another man suggested that I allow a young German from Montreal to go into the immigration room in the guise of a prisoner so that he might pump Horn. I was to pretend to Horn that this German had also been captured for some offence. It was figured this would make Horn confidential. I naturally could not consent to that, either.

"The third plan was to have me go to Machias by way of Calais, Me., which would necessitate crossing the bridge which my prisoner had tried to destroy and passing through Mac-Adams Junction, where it would have been an easy matter to have taken Horn from the train, once we were on Canadian ground.

"An agent brought me into a room here and told me if I would take Horn by way of the Canadian road there would be $100 waiting for me at a certain office.

"I do not mention these overtures in a spirit of condemnation because I consider with war on it is the right of the Canadians to get Horn by any possible strategy.

"But I was forced to tell these men just what I thought of the propositions and that my only duty was to see Horn was held and given proper protection while in my custody.

"I shall take Mr. Horn to Machias by way of Bangor. I shall not put handcuffs on him. He does not wish to escape from me or from the United States authorities.

PLEASED OVER SENTENCE.

"He was only too glad to have us arrest him on the charge of damaging local property, to which he pleaded guilty, and I never saw a man more pleased to get a thirty-day sentence. He will feel easier away from the boundary. There will be no chance for friction or kidnaping there.

"But believe me, boys, this has been anything but a pleasant job. I will be glad to wash my hands of it. I didn't know by some move on our part here we might get our whole country in trouble.

Sheriff Ross is one of the most picturesque characters in northern Maine. He is chief fish and game warden of this section, a licensed detective, postmaster of Vanceboro, and in the Summer travels with a circus. He has made a record in this region for his courage in pursuing criminals. He was the first to rush into Horn's room in the early morning capture at the Exchange Hotel. He has rounded up counterfeiters and poachers and law-breakers of all kinds. He is about fifty-five years of age and popular on both sides of the border.

OFFERS AID TO HORN.

His name and picture in this case have gone all over the country. Fellow townsmen envy George because of his fame in the bridge-blowing case, but he is receiving praise modestly.

Horn told the AMERICAN reporter today that his home is in Strehlen, Germany.

He received a telegram last night from George Perkins, No. 110 Webster avenue, Charlestown. The telegram was sent from the Parker House, Boston, and read as follows:

"Shall I employ counsel. Answer at once my expense."

Horn replied promptly:

"Your message received. Thanks. Am sentenced to thirty days, Machias Jail, State of Maine, account local charge for damaging windows. Counsel Canadian government trying to extradite me."

This was the first message of any kind received by Horn since he was placed in custody Tuesday morning. After he had pleaded guilty to breaking scores of windows in Vanceboro and otherwise injuring property, Horn seemed happier than ever.

"It is good to be moved farther back from the border," said he to the writer. "It will be better at Machias.

"No, I do not fear the thirty-days' imprisonment because I know the United States authorities will deal with me fairly.

"But the Canadian officials in the room when I pleaded guilty before Judge Smith did not like it. I could see that plainly. They made faces. But why should I care? I am only sorry that I did not destroy that bridge."

Feeling has been high the past two days on the Canadian side of the river. There has been talk of violence to the German officer.

There is some question as to whether Horn's assistant from the Canadian side, whom he has alluded to as an "Irishman" did not touch off the fuse after Horn had tied the suitcase full of explosive to the bridge. A three-minute fuse was used. This would not have given Horn time to reach the Exchange Hotel on the American side of the river before the explosion, where he was seen by Aubrey Teague, the proprietor, right after the report.

To have crossed the 150-foot span, run 1,000 yards and then up the hill to the hotel would have taken more than three minutes, in the opinion of those who inspected the premises. When Tague jumped out of bed, startled by the detonation, he saw the German standing inside the bathroom, his clothing coated with ice and his ears and face frost bitten.

This closeness of time indicates that another man who escaped on the Canadian side figured with Horn in the actual explosion.

Jeffries Fletcher and two other men saw Horn on the railroad bridge at 11 o'clock that night. They saw him, as they supposed, staggering with the bag. They concluded that he was drunk. Fletcher left the train and walked to the point on the bridge where Horn was standing. He said to the German, who was a total stranger to him:

"Have you got any business here?"

"Yes, I am a Dominion official," said Horn. "I have been posted here to stop skadlers (deserters) from crossing to the American side."

Fletcher believed this story and left the man. Horn is thought to have concealed himself later that night in a shanty on the Canadian side, but that would give him little shelter. He must have suffered intensely from exposure. He has told how he waited for three trains to pass, because he did not wish to hurt or kill anybody, and is waiting got his ears and fingers frozen.

As soon as the national government decides on a course in the Horn case the prisoner will be given a hearing before United States Commissioner Charles H. Reid at Bangor in connection with the extradition proceedings instituted by Canada.

It is not known whether this hearing will come after the expiration of Horn's thirty-days' sentence or before. That will depend on orders from Washington.

2 WOMEN AND GIRL BEATEN TO DEATH

SALAMANCA, N. Y., Feb. 5.—What is believed to have been a triple murder was brought to light today when the bodies of Mrs. Elisabeth Drake, sixty, her daughter, Mrs. Spencer, thirty, and the latter's ten-year-old daughter, Gertrude, were found in their home with their skulls crushed in.

They were apparently beaten to death with a sledge hammer.

BOYNTON AT 75 URGES MONORAIL

E. Moody Boynton has made another appeal before the Railroad Committee at the State House for legislation to enable him to build his long-sought one-rail system. He declared if he can get the legislation he will have 5,000 men at once building the line from Boston to Fall River and New Bedford and inside of six months will have it completed.

If given a chance, he declared, his system will supersede all other systems in the world. Passenger trains will run from coast to coast in a day and freight will be carried across the continent to Boston in three days, he said.

He said $2,000,000,000 can be saved of the $2,600,000,000 now collected by the United States railroads yearly, and it is a tragedy to continue to block these possibilities in the face of ruin for the existing railroad systems. That the Boynton system is practicable has been demonstrated, he said, and sixteen legislative committees from Massachusetts have seen the operations.

Mr. Boynton pleaded with the committee to take him seriously this time, when at seventy-five years of age, he labors on borrowed time to give to generations unborn a system that will revolutionize transportation.

William Rotch of Boston, a railroad engineer of long experience in road building in this country and in Mexico, declared that the one-rail system has been demonstrated to be practicable. It has been operated for many years on trial lines. He said it is entirely feasible, safer than the present standard-gauge railroads and will have far fewer accidents and far higher speed. Fred Carr also advocated the passage of the bill. He declared that the present cost of operating railroads will be materially reduced even if only one-tenth of what Mr. Boynton claims were accomplished.

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS

Be Better Looking — Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

Margaret Sargent Engaged To Wed Quincy A. S. McKean

Miss Margaret W. Sargent, whose engagement to Quincy Adams Shaw McKean is announced.

Start New Quincy Boulevard Soon

Construction work on the new Metropolitan boulevard at Wollaston Beach, which is to run through Quincy, will be started within a short time, providing that the necessary permission can be obtained from the State and Federal governments.

This boulevard is to pass over Black's Creek, Quincy, where a bridge must be built. Permission for the building of this bridge must be granted by both the Federal and State governments, thus giving employment to many.

Society Is Greatly Interested in the Announcement of Betrothal.

Society is as much interested in the engagement of Miss Margaret W. Sargent to Quincy Adams Shaw McKean, which is just announced, as in any event in its sphere this Winter. Miss Sargent is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Sargent of No. 49 Hereford street, and the sister of Francis W. Sargent, Jr., who married Miss Margery Lee at Beverly Farms in September last. Miss Sargent's mother was Miss Jane W. Hunnewell before her marriage.

The bride-elect is one of the most charming girls in the Back Bay set and a member of the Automobile, New Riding, Country and Mayflower Clubs.

Mr. McKean is a nephew of Quincy Adams Shaw, head of the Calumet & Hecla copper mines. He is popular in North Shore, Boston and Brookline society and is a Harvard '11 man. He is a member of the Tennis and Racquet Club.

Rose Coghlan Files Bankruptcy Petition

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Rose Coghlan, actress, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $9,538 and assets of $100. The Equitable Life has a claim for $8,000 on a loan secured by assignment of a $10,000 insurance policy payable to her daughter.

Brokerage firms have claims for $525 marginal losses on stock speculation.

POLICE SEEK HIGHWAYMEN

The police of Greater Boston are seeking today the men who robbed two automobiles and a man at the point of a gun, and attempted to break into a house. The hold-up in the streets and one of the store robberies are believed to be the work of one man in the South End. The other store and the house which was visited are both in Everett.

Robert Dunn of No. 150 Broadway, South Boston, was held up while driving his team in Southampton street, and relieved of $25 by a well-dressed man carrying a revolver. The hold-up man wore a dark overcoat with silk facings and a velour hat.

Soon afterward a man, answering this same description, coolly walked into the grocery and liquor store of Charles E. Richardson & Company, No. 167 Beach street. He said "Good evening" to the proprietor, then drew a revolver from his overcoat pocket and pushed it under the proprietor's nose. "I don't want any trouble here," he said, "but unless you give me all the money in that cash drawer, I'll ride you with bullets." Receiving the money, about $70, he backed out, preventing pursuit by covering those in the store with the revolver.

The burglar who robbed the store at No. 650 Market street, Everett, wore a raincoat and a southwester. He entered when the proprietor, Charles Kalajian was in the ice chest. There was one woman customer, whom he covered with his revolver. He got $40 in cash and a check for $15, and made his escape before Kalajian came out of the ice box.

At No. 30 Bellingham street, Everett, Mrs. C. W. Clark was awakened by footsteps in the snow under her window. She awakened her husband who looked out and saw a man climbing into the window. Clark and his wife both yelled so loud that the burglar climbed back to the snow and escaped before the arrival of the auto load of police rushed to the neighborhood.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomachache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt. For sale by Hiker-Jones and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

A Case of the Kettle Calling the Pot Black

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service.

JUST a day ago, in the subway, I saw two smart, trig, little city maids with sleek hair, spats, perfect composure and dartingly pretty faces commit that "commonest" of all by-plays—make hidden fun of a plain little person opposite them. Of course, you and I tuck in our chin and whisper that it is a pity when girls do that, that they cannot know that they are covering themselves with ridicule and a sign that calls aloud to men, "I am unattractive, and ill-mannered, and I do not know very much!" For there the sign hangs, democels, plain for any one to see, when you whisper behind your hand and flash amused eyes at odd-looking folks.

But do you know, if they had been twice as wise again and had looked carefully into the plain little country person's eyes they would have stubbed the toe of their minds on something—an amused little glint that lurked in her gray eyes. She thought they were FUNNY, TOO! Don't you reckon they would have stretched their blue and brown eyes if they had known that? Always remember, for this is what I thought while I watched and found a picture in it all, that there is an old fable about the pot calling the kettle black! When the perfect little nineteen-fourteen maiden in tiny hat and licked-down hair, wild feather, skins and skins of fur enough to pack the shelves of a Canadian trading post, gran'mother tunic, melon muff, "debutante slouch," spats, and tripping walk, confronts a row of girls from other lands and lisps, "My, but you are funny!" perhaps the Arabian Outlet—nails, the Pueblo Indian girl with her blue-dyed feathers, her bound feet and legs, and her elk-tooth necklaces, the Moor in her trousers and veil, the Esquimo in sealfur and polar bear skins with only her bright, broad face "keeking" out, the East Indian with her toe-rings and the diamond set in her curved brown nostril, the little Chinee with long nails and pubbin feet like the sure little under-pinning of our mountain burros, perhaps all these breathe out in broken English, "But YOU are funny, too!"—NELL BRINKLEY.

Unfortunate Love Affairs

In Most Cases They Are the Fault of the Persons Who Cannot Bear and Forbear

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

* * * * For God above
Is great to grant, as mighty to make,
And creates the love to reward the love."
—Robert Browning.

DAILY I receive letters from boys and girls who sign themselves "Down-hearted," or even "Broken-hearted," because of some unhappy love affair. "I cannot live without him," is a pathetically common sentence—it appears throughout the letters of my young correspondents in conjunction with such sentences as "Why did I have to love her at all if nothing was to come of it?"

Love is never wasted. Beginning at the little thrill of joy you feel when you see a beautiful flower, and going through your affection for a dog, your devotion and admiration for some pretty child, to the great love you bear your parents, no love is wasted. And an unhappy love affair ought to bring ability to build character in its wake—not pain and destruction. Out of an unselfish love come sympathy and understanding and self-forgetting tenderness. Even if the love that taught these things goes out of a life, is not the life richer for what it has learned?

Once you have loved, and blundered or failed love in some way that makes it go out of your life, you have learned what not to do, and so you are prepared with wisdom enough to hold the next love that comes!

THE REAL TEST

For, after all is said and done, the real test, the real power to love and to inspire love, lies in the ability to bear and forbear. The men and the women who have self-command and respect for the rights of others, who are able to say, "How would I feel in her place, or in his case?" and to lay a course accordingly, may be sure that they are on the right road to a perfect love.

You may say that one person cannot do it all. Very true—any more than one partner in a business can do it all; he may strive and slave, and yet, if the other partner deliberately sets to work to wreck all his efforts the result will be blank failure.

And, after all, a love affair is the preliminary into a business partnership. When you ask a girl to marry you, and when she consents, it is as if you were signing the preliminary papers to go into such a partnership.

Realize that before marriage you are both trying to secure the best opinion of the other. Your acts are open and above board, your manners are correct, your thoughtfulness is remarkable. There is a disposition on both your parts to forgive any trifling error and to think of the other as the most perfect thing.

How many there are who, when they find that the man in the case, or the girl in the case, suddenly appears with feet of clay, imagine that all the light has gone out of life and that there is nothing beyond but a vista of gloom that can never be dispelled!

How much worse, how much more tragic, it would be if the man or woman had found out the failings of the other after marriage!

This is the way to regard these so-called unhappy love affairs. Better half a dozen unhappy love affairs than one unhappy marriage. From the former there is escape; from the latter there is a long and weary road to travel before that escape becomes possible.

There is the natural tendency of the man who has found the girl of his heart wanting or for the girl who has found the man wanting to imagine that the sufferer is the most abused person in the world; that no grief was ever like his or her grief, that no person was ever so heart-broken. Look about you; you will find thousands of men and women before whose trials yours will seem the merest trifles. Take courage and thank your lucky stars that if you think you are heartbroken you have thought wrong—perhaps it is only your self-esteem that is hurt. Rise above the blow and go your way stronger and better.

Love is a constructive, building emotion. In the lower forms of life it leads to feats of bravado—as in the case of the fighting ones seen from bird to moose and the strutting exhibitions of beauty from the plumage of the little cock-o'-the-walk in birdland and on to the antlered deer. To mother bird love brings the protective nest-building attitude. Love makes for construction in all life and is not meant to destroy or to be used for destruction.

LOVABLE PEOPLE

A capacity for loving wisely and well, an unselfish desire to give of one's self, attracts. The people who are described as "so lovable" are generally those who fairly radiate affection. The cold, selfish nature may attract; the calculating or coquettish may charm, but to win devotion and feelings of loyal affection postulates the suggestion of power to feel in turn.

"To have a friend you must first find one" has become one of the rules of life since the very beginning of time. No one can hold friendship long unless they feel it too. No one can hold a great love without calling it into being on the one hand and making full and absolute response on the other.

No "heart-breaking" love experience is, in truth, devasting. For the love that has surged through a man or woman's being and has been denied will not always be denied. Nothing in all the world is wasted. A great love will be answered some day in some way.

Perhaps a big love will come in time; perhaps a power to interpret life through the work of one's art will grow out of the capacity for feeling that has been engendered; it may be that out of giving love unwisely once will come the talisman of knowledge of the human heart that will surround you with love from all who see you meet your problem.

But in the capacity to love lies the key to all of life. Love gives its own reward in being and in creating all the beauty that is born of love.

A PAIR OF SIXES

A Study of Love and Laughter Based on the Great Comedy Success of the Same Name

SYNOPSIS.

THE Eureka Digestive Pill Company is composed of two partners, George Nettleton and T. Boggs Johns. Nettleton inherited the business, and took Johns in because he invented an inviting purple covering for the pill. Everything would be all right if the partners were not insanely jealous of each other.

The scene opens with Jimmy, the office boy; Sally, the stenographer, and Krome, the bookkeeper, wondering how the fighting will last. Tony Toler, chief salesman, announces that Applegate, president of the Northwestern Drug Company, will be in to sign a big contract. The partners are overjoyed and promise Tony a third partnership in the firm when the contract is signed. Mrs. Nettleton arrives, bringing Miss Florence Cole, with whom Johns is in love. He has a rival in Vanderhoit, lawyer for the firm. Johns proposes and is accepted. In the other office Mrs. Nettleton is telling his wife of the constant quarrels between him and his partner. When Mrs. Nettleton and Florence go, Nettleton furiously tells Johns he will dissolve the partnership. Johns coolly agrees, and Vanderhoit is summoned to arrange the legal details. Tony reappears with Applegate. The partners forget their troubles and greet him effusively. Applegate blushingly confesses he has just been married. The partners congratulate him.

NOW, although he had been engaged in making out the order, Johns had not been deaf to the fact that his partner was taking unto himself the glory of the Eureka pill. He was now ready to make his claim to fame! Placing the order in front of Mr. Applegate, he struck an attitude of pleasant and frank simplicity and began to "blow the horn" of one T. Boggs Johns, Esq.

"As I'd like to call your attention to the color of these pills—my idea—mine entirely," As Nettleton tried to interrupt with the tale of the pill's ingredients, Boggs waved him aside and went on in lordly fashion: "The coating is made from the best refined beet sugar, and the fashionable violet dye has defied the persecution of the Pure Drug Act. The enormous sales, due almost exclusively to the outside of this pill"—

"Yes, yes, old fellow, but the selling quality is on the inside," cried Nettleton, taking the order quickly from Appleton, just as he was affixing his signature, and waving Johns aside. "Here we are! Account of sales for year ending November 30, 1915, 142,000 gross—none counting fifty pills to the box"—

"Fifty-one!" interrupted Johns suavely.

"Fifty!" continued Nettleton, not quite so suavely. "An X was signe—counting fifty pills to the box, we have for the pill that I have offered to the East and S"—

"You have?" jeered Johns.

"Yes, I," retorted Nettleton sharply. "Mr. Applegate is interested in the ingredients of my pill."

"And Mr. Applegate as a business man and druggist knows perfectly well that the success of any patent medicine depends first on its advertising and next upon its pleasing taste or form," cried Johns in rising indignation.

THE QUARREL ON

Krome's face had screwed into a mask of alarm. Sally gave unmistakable signs of a gale of laughter that was very much on the way. And poor Tony Toler wondered if the fourth matrimonial bark—namely his own—was about to strand on the reefs of the uncontrollable jealousy of these two partners, the one for the other. He decided that it would be well to remind the excited men of the fact that they had a big deal on and that it did not much matter why the pills were selling provided only they sold to the Northwestern Drug Company to the number of fifty thousand gross.

He stepped forward and spoke appealingly: "Mr. Boggs! Mr. Nettleton!"

"Tony, keep out of this!" snarled Nettleton.

"Gentlemen, I didn't come here to——" began Applegate in a placating tone.

"You keep out, too!" shouted Johns.

And Tony's face went gray. For he knew that now his partnership had gone asilmmering.

And with never a thought that he had just insulted the president of the Northwestern Drug Company, Johns returned whole-heartedly to his favorite indoor sport, attacking his partner!

"The public doesn't give a rap for the inside of your pills," he shouted. Applegate rose and backed away in astonishment. But the fight waged on with neither let nor stay.

"Every reputable doctor approves of my pill," clamored Nettleton.

WORSE AND WORSE

"Huh! What reputable doctor would ever prescribe your pill?" shouted his partner.

"Ouch! Do doctors prescribe your purple coloring?"

"They do! They are even giving X-ray violet baths!" retorted Johns in triumph.

Nettleton turned away in disgust and Applegate appealed to Tony. "What are they—humorists or just plain bugs?"

Nettleton had an access of sanity. "If Mr. Applegate will come with me into my private office——" he began ingratiatingly, and then could not refrain from adding, "Johns you are talking like a fool!"

"No, Mr. Nettleton, I don't believe I care to," said Applegate.

From the table in front of him Johns gathered up a great handful of the beautiful purple boxes and held them out to plead their own cause as good sellers.

"No, Mr. Johns, your sugar coating doesn't appeal to me, either. What my firm wants is a pill that will give the human stomach a good, square, honest deal. And in this office, the cause of indigestion seems rather stronger than the cure." And taking up the order he had just signed, Mr. Applegate tore it across and started for the door.

"But, Mr. Applegate!" pleaded Tony. Applegate handed him the torn order. "Frame it for future reference." In still fury Tony eyed the token of defeat for his plans. Then he spoke. And there was almost a hint of tears in his voice:

"Say, you two fools! You don't need a salesman; you want a wet nurse!"

And throwing the fragments of the lost order at them, Tony made his way to the door. But there, Nettleton arrested his progress for a moment. "Get out of here! You're fired!" he shouted.

"Fired! Huh!" snarled Tony.

"Now you're done it! Lost the best salesman in America and killed the biggest order we nearly ever had!" snorted Johns.

But Sally Parker wondered if they had not done more than that to her dream of love—and Taxis—and Tony Toler!

"NOT FAIR"

Nettleton shouted back across the sea of misunderstanding that was separating him further and further from his partner: "I didn't kill the order. You did it yourself when you tried to hog the credit for my pill!"

"It isn't so. I had him first and had him going," mourned Johns.

"And now you've got him gone."

"And why? Because you butt in and queer the sale when I have the order signed."

"Heh! Then I'm glad you lost it!"

"And you are perfectly willing to smash the business, George Nettleton, and choke the profits of the firm on account of your pigeish jealousy! It's not fair to me—or my children!"

In great contempt, Nettleton replied: "Your children! You sop-headed nincompoop, you're not even married!"

"No, but I expect to be! I'm looking to the future. And when I think of those poor little things—crying for food—starving for food—on your account it makes me wild!"

For a moment Nettleton stared at his partner as if he thought he had taken leave of his senses. Then he thought of his own childless lot and a glint of anger came to his eyes. "See here, Mr. Brains and Blood," he shouted, striding toward him angrily. "That's just about enough! Another remark or two like that and we'll make the matter personal!"

"All right, Mr. Bones and Fat, I'm with you!"

"WITH me! As soon as my lawyer comes and I get RID of you—I'm going to sit down—and laugh!" sneered Nettleton.

"And when my lawyer comes and I get RID of you—I'm going to set off fireworks!"

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

NOT READY TO WED

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty-three and in love with a woman seven years my senior, who has been divorced for about four or five years. She was married very young and was not happy. If we wait until I make a good salary before marrying she will waste the best years of her life. Do you think the difference in our ages will keep us from being happy?

E. J. E.

TELL this woman that you are not yet in a position to marry. Don't risk giving her further unhappiness in a life that has been none too happy. Unless you are fairly sure that you will care for her when you are in a position to prove it by offering marriage, don't let a woman of thirty drag out her years hoping against hope for happiness.

MAKING UP YOUR MIND.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been having two young men call on me for some time, and do not think it proper to receive attentions from both. I like them both, but want to make up my mind as to which one I prefer. One has a much better position than the other, and has a chance of advancing. That does not make any difference to me. I want to be sure I am taking the right one. They know about one another, as they have met.

UNDECIDED.

WHICH one of these young men do you feel you need to complete and round out your life? Which one do you understand and approve of? Which one gives you the most vital sympathy and understanding? Which one do you feel that you cannot live without? That one you must choose and no one outside of yourself can help you.

HOW TO TELL YOUR FORTUNE WITH THE WHITE OF AN EGG.

One of the most interesting as well as the easiest ways of foretelling the future is explained by Prof. Herman Latillier, the well-known French astrologer.

SEE SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

PERHAPS IT IS YOUR SHOES THAT MAKE YOU CROSS.

Science explains just how we can ruin not only our tempers but our health by not being more careful how our feet are dressed.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES ALL HER LIFE

But Miss Ayres Got a 'Beautiful Complexion' at a Cost of Only $2

Now, 23, 1914.—"For many years my face was covered completely with a mass of pimples, blackheads and blotches. I spent a lot of money on numerous remedies and treatments without success and no relief at all. I tried so many things that I was afraid my case could not be cured. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap seemed to do me good right from the first. I used two jars of Resinol Ointment and some Resinol Soap, the total cost being only $2.00, and this completely cured my case. My skin is without a blemish and I am the possessor of a beautiful complexion." (Signed) Mabell Ayres, Stone Mountain, Va.

Every druggist sells Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. For trial, free, write to Dept. 3-R, Resinol, Baltimore.—Advertisement.

Yale Motto Changed by Artist's Error

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 5.—Yale alumni associations that have reproduced the Yale seal on their stationery will be surprised to learn that through carelessness of artists, the Hebrew characters of the motto, "Light and Truth," have been made to read "Blasphemers and Farmers." The Alumni Weekly discovered the error.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU TAKE FOR COLDS

The danger in using patent medicines is from the stimulants and dangerous drugs which many of them depend on for their temporary effect. Because it is free from alcohol, narcotics and dangerous drugs, Father John's Medicine has had 50 years of success as a tonic and body builder, for healing throat and lungs and in the treatment of coughs and colds. Father John's Medicine is a doctor's prescription—pure and wholesome. Guaranteed.

ASTOR GOLD ENDS SUIT OVER CHILD

LONDON, Feb. 5.—William Waldorf Astor's late-in-life love romance has been settled without public airing of details in court, as was once threatened, the AMERICAN learns. The millionaire paid a heavy price, reported as $50,000, to close his many years' association with the beautiful Mrs. Alice Alexandra Falcke.

When, on November 26, the AMERICAN'S London bureau cabled exclusively of Mrs. Falcke's suit against Astor in the high courts here it appeared from Sir Edward Carson's brief and guarded statement in court that Mr. Astor was endeavoring to effect a settlement rather than have the suit publicly tried.

Astor's efforts were apparently successful, for an agreement has been arrived at between the parties whereby the millionaire's former companion has consented to abandon her $25,000 suit in respect to the baby of which she alleges Astor is the father.

Astor pays down a lump sum, which includes arrears of yearly payments which run for about from 1911. Also provision is made for the baby's future.

Mrs. Falcke, who now lives in Kineton, Warwickshire, agrees to abstain from further proceedings against Astor and agrees to abstain from associating the infant with the name of Astor.

An Open Letter

(About Bronchitis.)

TO THE PUBLIC: August 7, 1914.

In March, 1914, I became afflicted with an attack of Bronchitis which forced me to remain in bed for two months. The doctor in attendance changed the medicine several times, and instead of improvement, I seemed to grow worse. For awhile I was despondent, until my wife read a little pamphlet advertising the "Essence Mentho-Laxene." Discouraged with what I had been using without effect, I was willing to try almost anything that sounded like a cure. The Mentho-Laxene was bought, the syrup prepared according to direction, and before half the quantity was consumed the cough had abated and I was able to get up and get around the house. To make a long story short, I was at work four days after, and have never felt any symptoms of the dread disease since. All who are acquainted with Bronchitis will understand how hard it is to subdue the cough, but today I am willing to take an oath, or make an affidavit to the effect, that my case of Bronchitis was as severe as ever afflicted man, and that I was positively cured of it in less than four days, all due to the wonderful curative powers of the "Essence Mentho-Laxene." Since then I have recommended it to all sufferers as I was, or to those who were subject to colds of any kind. In each case the medicine sustained the reputation I had given it and all were loud in their praises of this truly valuable prescription.

All who may be skeptical in its use can write me, and I will cheerfully give them all the information they desire above my personal signature. Very respectfully, A. CAMPBELL, 2447 Lafayette St., Denver, Colo.

For the benefit of readers: Essence Mentho-Laxene can be obtained of druggists. A 2½ oz. bottle makes a full pint of cold and cough syrup. Full directions are with each bottle.—Advertisement.

Illness Halts Marshall Field Wedding

Bride-to-Be Stricken on Marriage Day

Young Heir to $50,000,000 Took Out His License to Wed the Day After Christmas.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—The wedding of Marshall Field, 3d, to Miss Evelyn Marshall of New York, which was to have taken place secretly Wednesday in New York, has been postponed, owing to the illness of the bride-to-be.

This information comes today in a telegram from the prospective groom to his aunt, Mrs. Henry Dibblee, of No. 1100 Lake Shore Drive. Field's telegram did not state the nature or seriousness of Miss Marshall's illness nor did it give the date of the wedding.

Apparently Miss Marshall was stricken close to the day set for her marriage.

The engagement of Miss Marshall to Field, grandson and heir to half the $100,000,000 fortune left by the late Marshall Field, multi-millionaire and merchant prince of Chicago, was announced November 28 of last year.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out. For sale by Riker-Jarnes and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

FINAL PLEAS IN WAKEFIELD CASE

The jury at the trial in East Cambridge of Ignazio Morella and Biagio Faleone for the first degree murder of Maurice A. Albertson, a Lawrence weaver, heard arguments by District Attorney Corcoran and Attorneys Thomas J. Grady and J. W. Connolly, counsel for the accused men, this afternoon.

The case will probably go to the jury at night. Both State and defense put in all the evidence they care to offer this morning. After the defense rested the district attorney said that because of an agreement made by him with Attorney Joseph Santelli, counsel for Luigi Grassadonia, one of the three indicted for murder, who turned State's evidence yesterday, that he would ask the Middlesex Grand Jury at its March sitting to find a new indictment against this defendant, charging him with being an accessory to robbery.

He said he had entered into this agreement after hearing what Grassadonia had told regarding the crime. Grassadonia's case was taken from the jury yesterday.

SAW STILETTO.

The last State witness was Felix Pasquelino, who testified to an alleged confession by Faleone. He said the stiletto shown by the State looked like one he had seen in Faleone's hands.

The chief witness for the defense was Morella, one of the accused men. He spoke in Italian. An interpreter was used. He made a general denial of the charges against him, denying among other things that he had had any hand in the murder or had gone to Grassadonia's cave with Faleone on the evening of the day following the day upon which the State claims Albertson was killed.

Grassadonia had testified that Morella came to his house with the knife taken from the murdered jeweler. When shown the stiletto with which, the State alleges, Albertson was stabbed, and the rope found around the neck of the victim, Morella denied ever having seen either before. He said he met Faleone on the street th day after the date set by the state as the time of the murder and that Faleone said scratches on his face had been inflicted in a row by another man.

DENIES SCRATCHES.

Morella said that his own face was not scratched. The marks on his own, he said, had been due to a rash.

He said he did not see Faleone at 11 on December 29, the day when it is claimed they murdered and buried Albertson.

Champion Girl Runaway, 8, Away for Third Time

Ella Hardy, eight, the "champion runaway," who left her home at No. 28 Hewes street, Cambridgeport, Wednesday, was found near the old National League ball grounds on Columbus avenue. She was taken to the Roxbury Crossing police station and her parents notified. This is the third time she has run away during the last few weeks. At the police station she made herself at home, listened to the phonograph and sang for the benefit of the men.

Morse Company Is Host to Salesmen

Members of the force of Leopold Morse Company gave a luncheon of that old Boston institution a banquet at the Hotel Somerset last evening. There was much enthusiasm among employes when it was learned that the house is going to make a greater effort than ever to increase business in Boston and New England. This policy is to be adopted because if the firm has to devote less attention to its prosperous business in the far West.

The presiding officer at the dinner was Andrew G. Crowley, special guests were Ferdinand Straus, Louis Straus, Julius C. Morse and Leon Straus. Ferdinand Straus in his remarks referred to the appreciation to members of the firm of the loyalty of salesmen.

White's Employes at Annual Dance

Eight hundred persons attended the annual dance of the B. H. White Company Mutual Benefit Association at International Hall, Roxbury. The special guests included Superintendent H. P. Russell and Assistant Superintendents James E. Shay and Joseph Poole. Messrs. Runyon, Simpson and Lansing, buyers, and the presidents of the employes' associations of the various department stores of the city.

President Richard J. Corbett was floor director, assisted by Vice-President Philip Nixon and Miss Minnie O'Neil. Magnus Manson was chief of aids.

HINT SURPRISE IN LOAN FIRM PROBE

An investigation of the books of the New England Discount Company, No. 162 Washington street, which does a commercial loan business under a Delaware charter, and against which an involuntary petition of bankruptcy was filed by Indian, Morson & Howard, is expected to be made results in startling discoveries.

On Monday the affairs of the company were assigned by a vote of the stockholders to the banks of N. T. Bernard of the late firm of Amsden & Bernard, No. 3 Hearing street. Mr. Bernard has had an auditor investigating the books.

The New England Discount Company was incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts in 1906 and formerly had a small loan business under a Massachusetts charter. It moved to Maine in 1911 and in 1913 to Delaware, which was supposed to have more lenient laws governing loan companies. It was reincorporated under a Delaware charter.

FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends all stomach distress in five minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—to you? Well don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt, if sour gassy and upset and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps, head dizzy and aching, belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food, heart sour, tongue coated, just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the delicate organism regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion, if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief in the world is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It is truly wonderful, it digests the food and sets things straight so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on with a weak, disordered stomach, it is unnecessary. For sale by Raker, Jaynes and all good druggists.—Advertisement

TRY NEXT SESSION ON IMMIGRATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Representative Burnett of Alabama, author of the immigration literacy test for the admission of aliens which the House failed to pass over President Wilson's veto the after a vote lacking five of the necessary two-thirds, says the contest will be renewed in the next House. Of 349 members present 261 voted to override the veto, 138 voted to sustain the President and two answered "present."

An analysis of the vote shows:

	To pass, over the veto	To sustain veto
Democrats	188	102
Republicans	75	32
Progressives and Progressive Republicans	16	2
Independents	1
Total	281	136

A feature of the debate was the opposition to the Pine bridge vote shown by several leading Democrats. Majority Leader Underwood made vigorous speeches enforcing the President's reasons for vetoing the bill. He said the country had spoken at the election returns Democratic majorities in Congress favorable to the position of the President and that the Democratic platform contained no such provision as that proposed. "I am content on the two political platforms upon which I have been elected before the people," he said.

Presidents Taft and Cleveland were denounced by name and their acts to override their veto.

Representative Gardner of Boston opposed the override saying the vote

STERLING

One faucet on your dealer's bar stands out from all the rest. So does the ale it draws.

CHIEF among the reasons for our own mark on Sterling is the goodness of the brew itself. One does not trademark a thin, a cheap, an ordinary ale. It is a distinction reserved for the finest and best.

That is why the blue and white tap of Sterling is a small thing to look for, but a big thing to find.

Everything is in readiness for the B. A. A. meet at Mechanics Building tomorrow night, when 400 athletes, the best track and field stars in the country, gather for what promises to be the classiest of all the big carnivals held under the auspices of the Back Bay organization.

The Hunter mile, one of the chief attractions of the meet, will share honors with the 1,000-yard run and the 600-yard run in class of entries "Bill" Bingham of Harvard, Francis Capper and Joe Higgins of Holy Cross, the man who did the distance in 2:19 at the I. A. A. A. meet, are three of the stars who will start from scratch in the 1,000.

"Abel" Kiviat, the most consistent performer of all and the winner of the first Hunter mile trophy; C. L. Spaiden, the great Cornell miler, and Willie Gordon of the N. Y. A. C., will also get on their marks alongside of the Eng trio.

H. R. Bechtel of Harvard and Edward McNealy of the I. A. A. A. are the limit men, with 42 yards.

FAST ENTRIES IN THE 600.

While there is little likelihood that any of the many exceptionally fast runners entered will equal E. B. Parsons' record for the 600-yard run, the entry list for that race assures some fine running and close competition. This even will be run in heats.

"Bill" Bingham will be found at scratch in the 600, starting in the first heat. "Dave" Caldwell of the B. A. A., who won the 880 at the Intercollegiates last Spring, will, with Captain Capper of Harvard, start from scratch in the second trial. W. Gough of the New York University will have three yards on the pair.

Wilkie of Yale is the low man in the third trial, conceding a few yards to Louis Gordon of the N. Y. A. C., high jump, too.

K. C. FEDS MAY GO TO GOTHAM

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—A paper here prints a story of a secret conference held here by Federal magnates looking to the transfer of the Kansas City team of that league to New York city.

The conference was held at the Blackstone Hotel, the paper says, and was attended by President Gilmore of the league; President Weghorst of the Chicago Feds; George Stovall, manager of the Kansas City Federals; Phil D. C. Ball, one of the owners of the St. Louis Federals, and P. T. Powers of New York, representing financial interests who are interested in the third big league.

Mr. Powers was formerly manager of the Madison Square Garden.

It was learned that President Gilmore and some of his associates were preparing to leave for New York today for the purpose of looking over two sites said to be obtainable and which are suitable for a ball park within easy access to the subway.

The proposed plan, it is said, is to transfer the Packers to Indianapolis, Stovall to Buffalo and to strengthen the team by giving one player from each of the other clubs.

"The Rabbit's" Column By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

Lord Kitchener says the European war will last three years. What we want is an expert opinion of the baseball war.

Doc Miller, who used to play right field for the Braves, has been released by the Reds. Doc has been pinch hitting the last couple of years. He could hit 'em, but was said to be slow in the field.

* * *

Doc took part in one of the oddest happenings of 1914—an occurrence on which the Reds based a protest—which was turned down, and which, under any reading of the rules ought to have been sustained.

* * *

Miller had been sent to bat in the ninth, a forlorn hope. Two were down and two strikes were called on Miller. Just as the pitcher poised to hurl, a ball that had been fouled over the grand stand came back. It fell on the sod near the first base line, and came rolling in, traveling right across the batter's box, and ebbing over the feet of Miller. Doc naturally leaped aside. Just then the pitcher let go the ball; it whirled across the plate and the umpire called it a third strike, ending the game.

The riot which followed died down in a little while, and a protest was filed—and rejected.

Under the rules no play can be made, started, or completed, with an extra ball in the field, and in this case the batter had even been forced to get out of the way of the ball that was rolling across his position.

* * *

Polly Parrott, the St. Louis pitcher who jumped to the Feds, told some Pittsburgh fans the other day that he once killed two deer with a single shot.

Can any kind of a baseball contract hold good with a man like that?

* * *

Manager Herzog of the Reds was somewhat puzzled and embarrassed when he reached the Cincinnati Park last Fall, to encounter one of the youngsters who was released by the Cincinnati club some weeks before, arrayed in proper uniform and industriously practising.

"How did you get here?" queried Buck, as the juvenile came grinning toward him.

"Why, just caught the first train and came on. Had to obey orders, didn't I?" responded the youngster.

"Orders? Why, what do you mean?"

"You ordered me to come back, and I didn't have much time left so I just told a couple of the boys to tell the management I'd gone, and hopped a train."

"Ordered you to come back?" wailed Herzog. "Who the—what the—why, when did I order you to come back?"

"Why, exclaimed the boy, "right here, on the official stationery of the club. That letter you sent me my last pay-check in—see for yourself what the envelope says."

And sure enough, on the letter, in pencil-ized type, were the potent words: "Return after five days to Cincinnati Base Ball Club."

According to Dave Fultz, president of the Players' Association, the ball players of the American Association are not as anxious for withdrawal of the draft as the league claims it is. He contends that without the draft the players will not have the same opportunity to advance as now.

Under the draft at least eight players entered the major leagues each year, but with the drafting privilege withdrawn the clubs of the association will desire to retain their best players—the players that were formerly claimed by the big leagues.

* * *

However, the announcement made by President Chivington of the American Association, that the draft would be abolished seems to be rather premature. According to Ban Johnson and President Tener the matter has only been considered and not decided upon.

FILENE OUTLINES TRADE CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Edward A. Filene, a leading Boston merchant, addressed the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States here today. He is vice president of the International Chamber of Commerce and was in Europe as a delegate to its convention there when the great war began.

Mr. Filene aided both the Berlin and Paris embassies of his country by carrying messages between them. Owing to his business and diplomatic connections he had opportunities afforded few Americans to judge of "Trade Expansion and the European War." That was the subject of his address here today. He said in part:

"While we may be able to greatly increase our exports during the next two or three years, the outlook is that after the warring nations have ended the war and re-established their producing organizations on the markets for the world's markets will be fiercer than it has been before in the world's history. Moreover, some of the warring countries, if not all, will be obliged to get this trade at whatever price they can and will undersell us. Even then they will be able to make profit because labor will be forced to accept lower wages and employers a lower scale of living than their competitors. Of the fundamentals of reform that must be made right the first and obvious is ocean carriage.

WORK FOR OUR BANKS.

"Our banks should do pioneer work in establishing, financing and promoting our foreign commerce, at least to the extent which the English and German banks have done. In this work the banks should take the first and statesmanlike view rather than let questions of immediate profit rule. Moreover, there are a number of reasons why it should be done not by individual banks but by all the banks or groups of banks acting in co-operation or at least by the co-operation of all the banks of a region of a city. "First of all, branches and subsidiary banks should be established, the first consideration being the opportunity to develop American commerce in the new territory.

"Given then proper fields for trade expansion, proper ocean carriage and proper financing, there will remain what is ordinarily considered the only thing necessary for foreign trade—the selling of the goods in foreign markets.

"It seems to me that the best method for the investigation and conquering of foreign markets is that it shall be made for each trade by its national trade organization, by which almost every kind of business in this country is represented. I mean that such trade organizations shall send the ablest representatives they can procure into foreign countries to investigate, study and organize the markets.

PROPOSES NEW MACHINE.

"In order to bring what is desired about, I propose another new machine. That is, that these trade organizations, or insurance companies created by them, shall insure the contracts for their members on what they sell. What I mean is this: Every man who buys a bill of goods from the United States may insure with the purchase an insurance policy, which will insure his getting within the agreed-upon time and quantity and quality up to sample of goods he has ordered, or else an agreed upon indemnity which will make up for the loss which the failure to fulfill the contract may have occasioned. "Connected with this should be a system of arbitrating on the spot any difference that may arise between buyer and seller. As the insurance company would have the right of recourse to the producer, the cost of such insurance would be comparatively trifling and could be paid without any hardship."

CHESTER, S. C., Feb. 4.—Four white men escaped from the Yorkville jail. One of them, Coleman Noland, alias "Chicago Noland," famous in many States as a safe blower and recently pardoned by Governor Blease, but reincarcerated for robbing a Fort Mill bank in 1903, refused to leave.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms acids which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their effort to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine should be clear as water; the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

ISADORA DUNCAN AIDS 'LOVE WIFE'

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A number of women club workers and men similarly associated have started a petition urging the release of Mrs. Lola Sniffen Walters from jail. Isadora Duncan's studio in Fourth avenue.

Among the hundred or more who signed the petition are Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Henrietta Rodman, Mrs. Duncan, Mrs. John Winters Bronnan, Mrs. James T. McLane, Robert Henri, Roscoe Hall, Max Eastman and Marion Shaw.

The petition reads:

"We, the undersigned, urge that Ida Walters be set free, so that she can take care of her unborn child."

Copies of the petition will be distributed all over the city, and a house to house canvass will be made by scores of women.

"We want ten thousand signatures, and we will get them," announced Mrs. Gilman.

Mrs. Walters has apparently received, but is not ready to be removed from the hospital.

Officials Guests at Operators' Ball

Prominent state and city officials will be the guests of the Boston Moving Picture Operators' Protective Union at their first ball, which will be held in Convention Hall, St. Botolph street, Back Bay, this evening. It is planned to have some well known screen artist lead the grand march. Many dancing novelties will be introduced and the expense has been spared on the electrical effects. The floor will be in charge of President James Burke, assisted by John W. Spence, Bernard F. McDaffigan is chief of aids and will be assisted by William Benoit, John B. Williams, M. Rothenberg, John J. Sweetman, Joseph S. Cifre, Edward Hoyt and John J. Pullick.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

The luncheon of the electrical interests held at the American House yesterday brought out an attendance of almost 200 persons who are interested in some manner or other in the electrical and transportation affairs of this city. It was one of the banner luncheons in the history of the electrical vehicle associations of this city.

John N. Cole, chairman of the Industrial Development Board of Boston, gave an interesting talk on electrical transportation reciting how best to care for this great and distressing problem, which means so much to the business men of the country. G. D. Berry, assistant to Chester I. Campbell, manager of the Boston automobile show, told in a general manner of what is being done for the electrical interests at the forthcoming exhibit.

The funeral of W. E. Rankin, one of the best known members of the motor industry of New England, will be held from his old home in Providence today and will be attended by a host of his old friends from Boston. Bill Rankin was really one of the motor pioneers of the country in all that the term implies and his friends were legion. No more kindly hearted man ever lived than Bill Rankin and his death which occurred on Tuesday cast a gloom in all sections of New England.

Ralph B. Nettleton of the local Chandler distributing company, returned from the Chandler plant at Cleveland yesterday. Mr. Nettleton says that never in all his experience has he seen so much business at one and the same time as is now being transacted at the factory. Agents and dealers were there from all sections of the country clamoring for more cars. He himself went out on such a mission and while he was successful to a degree he says that not much so as he had desired. The plant is working day and night to catch up with the orders received since the reduction of price was announced.

Truck drivers who use only three or four short chains on the rear wheels these days are losing fully 50 per cent. of their car efficiency and place a decided strain on their motors, according to Tom Cotter, New England representative of the Weed Chain Tire Grip Company, who says that there is nothing for such driving as is now being experienced that can equal in efficiency Weed tire grips, that do the work and do it thoroughly. In order to get full efficiency chains should be placed at short intervals around the tire so that the grip of the road can be steady and not jerky and which gives the motor a steady pull at all times.

EXPLAIN ABSENCE OF 'RIGHT MAN'

Boston and New England women are revealing stories of real heart interest in their letters to the AMERICAN answering the question raised by a woman author in the current issue of Good Housekeeping, as to why there are so many unmarried women. Their reasons for the non-appearance of the "right man" throw interesting sidelights on a problem which concerns thousands.

The questions asked by the woman author were:

Why are there so many perfectly good unmarried women?
Don't they want to be married?
Don't they meet the right man?
Why don't they?
How can they?
Why is modern society so formed that the great mistake of the right people never meeting exists?

A number of letters on this subject will be printed in the Sunday AMERICAN. Among those recently received are these:

Editor, Right Man, AMERICAN.

Why are there so many unmarried women? Because the single man and woman will do nothing toward meeting each other.

For the past four years I have sought for some club where I might meet young people of my own standard. I have visited a number of these, but find mostly older people. Why can't a club be organized with some object or benefit that would attract and bring young people together?

I noticed a young man say to his mother, "I've just been down skating and I don't see why the girls don't come out." This is the condition that exists at present. Give the young man a chance to meet the girl so he can become acquainted.

I would be glad to "put my shoulder to the wheel" in helping to begin a club for young people, if it could be for some purpose, either instructive, or perhaps insurance, and yet shut out the undesirable class.

A. MacF.

A Cambridge man writes:

Editor, Right Man, AMERICAN.

I do not agree with some of our young ladies' answers as to why I am not married. I am about thirty, and earning a living wage.

It's an erroneous idea to say a man cannot support a wife in these days. If we want to have a taxicab call to take us to the theatre, and a furnace register underneath every rocking-chair in our rooms, then it is far better to live on the Island of Moderation.

In the dance halls, no doubt, there has been found many a good housekeeper. But then, it is not how good you appear on the street, how well you can dance. If the young man happens not to be a good dancer, his partner soon make it uncomfortable for him.

I disagree with Miss Foley on the subject of young men not earning enough to support a wife. Nearly ninety-nine out of 100 of the young ladies who are earning a good livelihood would like to be Marriage vow if they met the young man of their choice.

Blood Sufferers Want to Know

The Light is Turned on to a Subject of Darkness.

The mere fact that S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, drives out disease is a world's story. A topic of conversation wherever men get together.

But the why simply because most remedies are mystified and put before them as "discoveries." The facts are that we pay too much attention to possibilities and not enough to real, home-spun accomplishment. S. S. S. is a remedy of facts. For it has a history that is written deeply in men's minds because it has done the work, driven out the germ disease, revived hope, for the O. K. on appearance and clamped down tight any effort of germs to get back into the system. Any sore spot on the skin is an immediate demand for S. S. S since the first principle of this famous remedy is to search out for place of trouble. This is a physiological fact and S. S. S. is true to the workings of our body.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today at any druggist and begin blood health. It will master any blood disease and do it in a way to emphasize its influence. And if you would like definite advice write The Swift Specific Co., 58 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Their medical department is where most people first seek advice that puts them on the straight road.

EVA BOOTH of Salvation Army, ill in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 5.—Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, who is ill at a hotel here, is reported to be suffering from peritonitis. Miss Booth's physician said she could not be moved for the next thirty-six hours.

Another Rush for Embroidery Outfits

Even yesterday's cold weather did not prevent several hundred women from braving the weather to get the AMERICAN'S embroidery pattern outfits.

They were amply rewarded for their trouble after arriving home and opening the big envelope in which each outfit comes.

And then, spread out before them, each one found a veritable embroidery treasure trove, over 200 hot-iron transfer patterns of the very latest designs, an all-wood beaded embroidery hoop of special clasp design—a beauty; ten skeins of embroidery silk and floss in assorted colors and a pamphlet of full instructions showing just how to do all of the embroidery stitches.

What a "treat" for embroidery workers!

And the AMERICAN'S Embroidery Pattern Outfit is a treasure for any woman that ever does embroidery work.

Just think of it! Beautiful designs for shirtwaist fronts, shirtwaist decorations, lingerie sets, sprays for women's garments, jabots, collar and cuff sets, dollies, handbags and over two hundred others of every description.

Just one word of caution: clip the coupons without delay. Thousands of women were disappointed a few weeks ago when the AMERICAN'S supply was utterly exhausted.

This will, undoubtedly, happen again—and soon—so don't YOU be among the late ones who are certain to be disappointed.

Read all about the AMERICAN'S splendid embroidery offer—read it NOW, on today's Magazine page—and act before it is again "too late."

FISHER SUGGESTS HIGHER CAR FARE

That low wages are bad railroad economy, as poverty kills a workman and his efficiency, and that the cost of living will rise until 1935 were among the arguments of Professor Irving Fisher, who employes of the Bay State Street Railway called before the arbitration board now hearing their plea for more pay.

"Based on an average of prices between 1901-1905 and today $1 is worth seventy-eight cents. On the same basis a dollar in 1895 was worth $1.24," he said.

"A living wage is a sufficient amount to include for a family the elements of a reasonable standard of living, the support, education, recreation, the support of the immature, the maintenance of the sick and savings for old age.

"For the good of employer, employe and the public, every workman should have a physiological workday—that workday at the end of which the degree of fatigue is not so excessive that the workman is not restored by a refreshing night's sleep."

"I think it would be well for the electric railroads to raise the 5-cent fare like other prices have been advanced in the community. I would say, organizations, strikes and lockouts are due to the fact that the increase in commodities, the price of labor and the public service do not move together.

"Very often the working day of today is too long. Accidents on the New Haven road were due to too long hours.

"Ultimately minimum subsistence will bring sickness. The men cannot afford good houses, ventilation, clothing, and in various ways suffer.

"Cold dances up and down and everything else has to dance with it under our present monetary system. It is suicidal for the railroad and injurious to the public to adjust anything without proper consideration of this fact."

He declared the men are entitled to proper wages even if the road went into the hands of a receiver. He stated the men should not be the "goat" because finances are low. Take it out of the passengers, was his suggestion, even if a fight had to be made before the Legislature.

Buy It Now and Bring About Immediate Prosperity

Goods Will Never Be Cheaper, if as Cheap—Begin Buying What You Need and You Will Soon Be Able to Afford Luxuries, Because of the Good Times You Help to Bring

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

There is plenty of money in this country. Despite a great deal of unemployment there are hundreds and thousands of men with good incomes, hundreds of thousands of people with money in the banks.

To hoard money, to practice self-denial now will only defer the coming of prosperity.

The maxim that the people must follow to restore good times immediately is:

BUY IT NOW!

Don't wait till next Summer or next week. Necessities are cheaper today than they have been for many years—cheaper than they are likely to be again for some time.

Many people have put off buying even necessities till some later time, till money shall be more plentiful.

The quickest way to make money more plentiful is to put it into circulation, and the best way to put it into circulation is to use it for the purpose for which it is intended—buying yourself the things you need and can afford.

The business depression, due to unwise tariff legislation and to some extent aggravated by the war, is fast passing.

But it should be made to pass immediately.

When factories are again in motion, when trade of all kinds is expanding, the problem of the unemployed will cure itself.

But every man who has an income must help.

Go into any store and you will be surprised how cheaply you can buy. Articles that a year ago you thought were beyond your purse have been greatly reduced.

The reduction includes almost everything from bric-a-brac up to automobiles.

Talk to your dealer about it, and he will show you how immediate purchases will effect a great saving.

With better times and increased trade expansion prices are bound to go up.

If you have set your heart on having some particular possession in the future, go look at it in the store TODAY. You will probably find that it can be purchased far more cheaply than it could have been purchased a year ago.

The pride of every housewife is in intelligent buying. That is the way prudent and far-sighted women save their money.

Many men have been made successful because their wives bought household supplies in advance and in quantity.

This is the time to do that kind of buying.

Go to the grocer's or to the dry goods counters in the big stores. Compare the prices of today with those of a year ago.

Inquire about the tendency of prices. You will find that they are going up, instead of going down.

The purchases that you make will add to a trade revival that will set new factories going, give employment to more men and women.

If you hoard your money you will not only deprive yourself of things you want and need, but you will actually lose money in the end—for when you must have these things they will cost more.

There is no extravagance in intelligent purchasing.

Every great manufacturing or railroad corporation has a department for buying, which studies markets and buys to the best advantage, laying in supplies always when they are the cheapest.

Millions of dollars are saved in this way by great industries.

The same system, on a smaller scale, can be practiced in the home.

Unfailing signs point to the coming of the best times this country has ever seen.

East, West, North and South will share in it.

The man or woman who wants to get his or her share will do well to make purchases of all kinds before the rise in prices, to get the piano or the motor car or the library that has been the family dream for years.

To do this is not extravagance, it is wisdom.

And it will bring prosperity immediately, and solve every financial problem that has confronted the country since the tariff bill was passed.

Whatever you need or want, do not put off its purchase.

The Belgian Relief Fund

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Will you allow me to take this opportunity to thank you for the valuable assistance given by your paper to the Kermesse Flamande in aid of the Belgian Relief Fund, and also to thank the members of your staff for their courtesy and attention to our wishes.

A trip to Canada has caused delay, on my part, in writing you. We appreciate fully all that you did for us.

Sincerely yours,
HERBERT JAQUES,
Manager Kermesse Flamande.

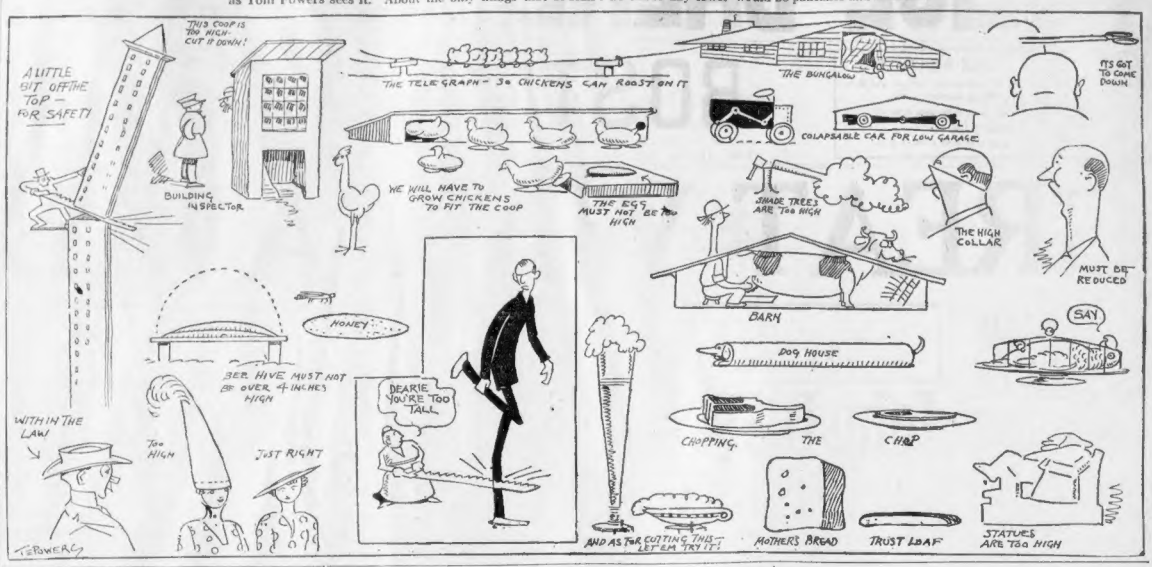
If Skyscrapers Should Be Cut Down

By T. E. POWERS

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

An attempt is being made in New York to limit the height of buildings. Some ask why shouldn't the lawmakers be logical and flatten out everything else. Here is the result, as Tom Powers sees it. About the only things that couldn't be made any lower would be pancakes and flounders.



Teach All Children Trade With the Alphabet, Says Dorothy Dix

Ninety Per Cent. of Criminals Could Have Been Saved by Training in Some Profitable Employment in Their Youth—Educators Should Face Facts

By DOROTHY DIX

MR. HENRY FORD'S assertion that he could make every criminal in Sing Sing into a decent citizen by turning him into a first-class mechanic, capable of earning good pay, is the most sensible reform propaganda that has ever been put forth.

The gospel of work is the salvation of the world, for it is not only true that Satan finds work for idle hands to do, but the majority of people who go wrong are crooks because they don't know any straight way of making a living.

Mr. Ford believes, and rightly, that the best way to reform a criminal is by giving him fairly paid work to do. He might well have gone a step farther and have said that the way to prevent people from becoming criminals is to teach them, while they are still children, some trade by which they can earn enough money to live honestly.

Pathetic and Terrible Thing That Most of Criminals Are Young

It is a pathetic and a terrible thing that most of our criminals are so young. Go into any court and you will see that the thieves, the pickpockets, the gangsters, the gunmen who commit murder for hire are just boys. Look at the painted faced women of the street and you see that they are young girls, hardly more than children.

Of course, there are some unfortunates who are born physically and morally deformed, and who would be criminals under any circumstances, but the great majority of those who become criminals are more weak than vicious. They are simply those without much intelligence, without any initiative of their own, who follow the line of least resistance, and go in any direction in which they are pushed.

Boys and girls of this type do not do well at school. They have not what homely people call "book sense," and they fall behind in their studies. The teachers scold them and their fellow pupils ridicule them, and they become truants, and drop out of school altogether at the first possible moment.

These boys and girls have not been taught one single, solitary thing by which they can earn a decent living. They have to take the lowest paid kinds of labor. They cannot earn enough to live on in any sort of decent comfort, and so the boy is drawn inevitably into the criminal gang, and the girl on the streets.

Teaching of Trade Would Have Saved Ninety Per Cent. of Them

If, along with their "a, b, c's," these children had been taught some trade at which they would have become sufficiently expert to command a living wage, I believe that ninety per cent. of them could have been saved from ever becoming criminals. In the first place their pride and self-respect would have been saved even in the school, for very often people who have little intellectuality have a strong mechanical sense. The boy who can never learn the names of all the Presidents may be able to do things with his hands that will redeem his scholarship in the sight of his fellows, and thus keep him interested and eager to go to school, instead of making him a truant.

Nor should we forget this most important fact that the habits that we form in childhood are practically unbreakable. They follow us as long as we live, and it is a safe assertion that no child who has the habit of industry, of doing some sort of particular work accurately, and efficiently, ingrained in him or her, will ever develop into an idler and a loafer.

It is perfectly possible to teach every girl and boy a good trade, to turn them into expert workers capable of earning a living wage by the time they are old enough to take out their working papers. If we did this we should remove temptation to a large extent from their pathway. We would have formed the habit of industry in them, we would have taught them the joy there is in doing good work, in being efficient, and that is about the best thing that any human being can know.

The real reason that most people hate to work is because they are bunglers at their jobs, and they are ashamed of the results they turn out. They have never been taught scientific management or how to do their work artistically. Women hate to cook, because they don't know the first principles of cookery, and the results of their labor are adamantine bread, and watery vegetables, and leathery meat that would kill an ostrich. But find a woman who is an expert cook, and whose pies, and cakes, and sauce are celebrated among all who know her, and you'll find a woman who delights in cooking.

Good Work Always Fills Man with Sacred Joy of Achievement

The jack-leg carpenter, whose work is clumsy and ill-done, hates his job and "lays off" as often as possible, but the expert carpenter, the real mechanic, whose work is a joy to behold, thinks carpentering the finest occupation on earth, and wonders everybody doesn't follow it.

For good work of whatever kind is artistry, and it commands recognition and pay, and it fills the one who does it with the sacred joy of achievement.

The way to stop criminality is with work, and the place to begin is in the first grade of the public school.

A Famous Artist Says We Have Six Senses

Besides hearing, sight, touch, smell and taste Harrison Fisher, the famous artist, believes we all possess a sixth sense. To prove his theory correct (from an artistic point, at least) Mr. Fisher has painted for THE SUNDAY AMERICAN'S ONCE-A-MONTH MAGAZINE a series of six charming pictures, each of which has for its theme one of the senses. Just what he thinks this sixth sense of ours is like won't be made known until the last of the series, but we shall enjoy waiting for the mystery to be cleared up if the other paintings are one-half as beautiful as the one which adorns the front cover of next Sunday's ONCE-A-MONTH MAGAZINE. "Seeing," is the title of this painting, and the soft colors of the original are so effectively reproduced that it is well worth framing. Be sure you get it with next Sunday's Sunday Boston AMERICAN.

Other contributions by famous artists and writers which make next Sunday's ONCE-A-MONTH MAGAZINE such a tempting treat include:

A Great Detective Story by Anna Katharine Green
In "An Intangible Clue," we feel sure you will find this famous writer of detective mysteries at her best. It is a thrilling story.

Another Lapidowitz Adventure by Bruno Lessing
That genial rogue, Lapidowitz, with whom all readers of the AMERICAN Sunday Monthly Magazine are now familiar, consults a Christian lawyer for a change, and may be said to win his case. Lawyer, however, does not come off so easy. Read it and see what happens.

"The Star Rover," by Jack London
Another absorbing instalment of this wonderful story of life in prison and out, on this earth and in the world beyond. A. B. Wenzell supplies the illustrations.

All in the February number of the AMERICAN'S Sunday Monthly Magazine. Free with every copy of next Sunday's Boston Sunday AMERICAN.

Craig Kennedy's Greatest Adventure

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

The Solution of an Old Mystery
Upon learning that strips of tin and glass enter into the construction of woollen garments we begin to understand why we can never sit still for very long at a time after changing into our Winter flannels.

Repellant Molecules, So to Speak
Gentlemen named Lawson never appear to take the Standard Oil Company very strenuously.

And That's About All
The shipping bill filibuster has established pretty conclusively that Senator Smoot can talk for eleven hours.

Ill Assorted Gifts
The White House baby has been given a pair of boxing gloves and a pair of overalls. But he'll never be able to use both of them.

But We Need Him Over Here
If England really wants men to rally round the Union Jack why doesn't she hire George M. Cohan to give it a little advertising?

One Meal Ticket Cancelled
Harry Thaw may continue to give employment to high-priced lawyers, but William T. Jerome will not be one of them.

THE CAUSE OF THE PEOPLE

By LILIAN LAUFERTY

THO' they slay me, I shall not perish,
Tho' they torture, I shall not die—
For I am the Cause of the People,
And I still shall conquer—Aye!
They may murder my brave young heroes,
And my leaders may go to their death,
But ever shall rise in fearless guise
Men who have felt my breath.

They will laugh at their toil in the sun blaze.
They must freeze in their tents on the plains,
They shall fight each new-born tyrant,
Tho' they die with a thousand pains.
Be it war or battle or famine,
The world must heed my cry,
For the Cause of the People shall triumph
Tho' a world of people die!
